BETTER CARE AND WELLBEING IN EAST LONDON

We can all do our bit

As more and more people choose to live and work in east London, and more of us are living longer, the demand on health and social care services is at an all-time high.

Our doctors, nurses, therapists and other health and care professionals are looking after record numbers of people every day as our population grows faster than in any other part of the country.

Despite immense pressures, local hospitals are continuing to treat A&E patients as fast and effectively as any major western country.

Our GP, mental health and community services are among the very best in the country, and local councils are providing vital care to the most vulnerable.

It's thanks to the dedication and hard work of the professionals involved, and the support of many thousands of voluntary carers, community and charity organisations across the area that we are getting the care we need. But change must be allowed to happen, and things improved, if we are to protect the health and care services we value so much, not just for now but for future generations.

The NHS has constantly adapted and must continue to do so as our community and our health needs also change.

It is now able to treat people with new drugs and clinical care that weren't available in the past. With this comes an increase in life expectancy, but also a rise in the ailments of old age. More people now have conditions including heart disease, arthritis and Type 2 diabetes.

There are big opportunities to improve things by making common-sense changes to how the NHS has historically worked and bring it closer to the social care services run by local councils.

This a chance to deliver improvements that matter:

- ▶ to make it easier to see a GP;
- ▶ to speed up cancer diagnosis;
- ▶ to offer better support in the community for people with mental health conditions;
- ▶ to provide care for people closer to their home.

If we do nothing and carry on providing and using services in the way we do now, without any changes, we will not only miss out on these improvements, we will fail to keep up with the growing demand and simply won't have enough money to keep services going as now.

In the east London area alone, there will be a £580m shortfall in funding within four years, by 2021. Services and facilities may have to close and standards of care will suffer if not addressed urgently.

Change is required, and fast, to help keep us healthy and well in the future and to receive care when we need it.

We all have a part to play in this – all of those providing the services, and all of us using them. We can all do our bit.

It's why neighbouring NHS hospitals, community and mental health trusts, family doctors, pharmacies, local councils and others have come together to plan for the future and redesign local health and care services to benefit us all – now and in the years ahead.

Working as the East London Health & Care Partnership, and backed by the leaders of all the organisations involved, they are combining their expertise and resources to develop ways of giving our nurses, doctors and care staff the best chance of success to look after us when we need them to.

BETTER CARE AND WELLBEING IN EAST LONDON

The organisations behind the Partnership are:

NHS

Clinical Commissioning Groups

- ▶ Barking & Dagenham; City & Hackney; Havering; Newham; Redbridge; Tower Hamlets; Waltham Forest

‘Provider’ Trusts

- ▶ Barking, Havering and Redbridge University Hospitals Trust; Barts Health NHS Trust; The Homerton University Hospital NHS Foundation Trust; East London NHS; Foundation Trust; North East London NHS Foundation Trust

Councils

- ▶ Barking & Dagenham; City of London Corporation; Hackney; Havering; Newham; Redbridge; Tower Hamlets; Waltham Forest

With a shared goal to help people live healthy and independent lives, the Partnership’s mission is to protect vital services and provide better treatment and care built around the needs of local people, safely and conveniently, closer to home.

A top priority is to reduce the pressures on our hospitals and accident and emergency departments. A&E is all too often used as the only door into health and care services, when ideally people should be supported by NHS 111 staff, GPs, community staff and resources in their own homes. The public themselves. The public wants easier access to GPs.

The Partnership also wants better outcomes for cancer patients, people with diagnosed with diabetes and improvements to mental health services, and to help people become independent with access to care at home.

Reshaping services to provide them in the right place, where people need them most, supported by the right team of staff from across health and social care, with the right resources, is a key and urgent requirement.

The response to the demand on services needs to offer better alternatives that help prevent people’s health deteriorating. This isn’t just to make the most efficient use of the resources and money available, but to provide a better quality of care and services in the community, where local people have told us they want them.

Improving the hundreds of health and care services for the two million people of east London – a population expected to grow by around 30,000 more people in 2017 alone – is a challenge.

Significant improvements are already being made by joining services up and people are starting to feel the benefit. The area now has some of the best care provision and facilities in the country, but there’s still much to do.

Although they operate safely, some of our hospitals aren’t fully equipped to meet the needs of modern healthcare. Waiting times for appointments and treatments must be reduced. And more has to be done to safeguard our most vulnerable people, such as the elderly, disabled and those with mental health difficulties.

‘Barrier busters’

The East London Health & Care Partnership isn’t afraid to tackle these challenges. It will build on the successes achieved so far and bring health and social care service providers even closer together – busting any barriers between them and ensuring services are fully able to meet the needs of local people, now and in future.

The Partnership’s main priorities are:

- ▶ To help local people live healthy and independent lives
- ▶ To improve local health and care services and outcomes
- ▶ To have the right staff in the right place with the right resources to meet the community’s needs
- ▶ To be a well-run, efficient and open Partnership

The Partnership is not seeking to take away local control of services. It recognises that while east London as a whole faces some common problems – such as the high rate of preventable illness and a shortage of clinicians and care staff – the local make up and characteristics of the area vary considerably and services must continue to be tailored and managed accordingly.

The Partnership is therefore shaping the way it tackles its priorities around three localised areas, bringing the councils and NHS organisations within them together as local care partnerships:

- ▶ Barking, Havering and Redbridge
- ▶ City of London & Hackney
- ▶ Newham, Tower Hamlets and Waltham Forest

They will be responsible for ensuring the people living in these areas get high quality standards of care designed around their particular needs.

The Partnership as a whole will drive forward the things that can only be achieved by all of the councils and NHS organisations across east London working together. This includes:

- ▶ good quality urgent and emergency care for the area
- ▶ the availability of specialist clinical treatments
- ▶ a better use of buildings and facilities
- ▶ the recruitment and retention of doctors, nurses and other health and care professionals
- ▶ an increased use of digital technology to speed up the diagnosis and treatment of illness
- ▶ ways of working that put a stop to duplication and unnecessary expense

The involvement of councils is enabling the provision of health and care services to be aligned with the development of housing, employment and education, all of which can have a big influence.

But the biggest single factor in the long term is to prevent ill health and in particular deaths caused by the effects of lifestyle choices such as diet, lack of exercise and smoking.

This is something we can all play a part in – everyone living and working in east London. It’s not just down to the authorities.

All of us can do those little things each day that help us stay healthy and well, watching what we eat and drink and being more active. We will help people to do this and get involved in local communities to overcome isolation, which is a bigger killer than smoking.

It’s also about using health and care services in the right way. Rather than go to a doctor or an A&E for every minor ailment, we can get advice from NHS111 first, online or by telephone, or go to a local pharmacist.

We can all do our bit. If we do this, and get behind the work of the East London Health & Care Partnership, the prize is being able to lead healthy and independent lives, and get the care we can trust and rely on when we need it.

PREVENTION

Our aims

- Better support to stop smoking
- Better screening, treatment and support for diabetes
- Help you look after your own general health and wellbeing

More and more people are choosing to live, work and stay in east London.

Major regeneration of the area is creating growth and opportunity, bringing new jobs and housing, better transport, shopping and leisure facilities, making it an attractive place to call home.

But while this is improving east London as a place, and making it generally more prosperous, are we actually investing in ourselves and taking care of our personal future health and wellbeing?

Some 40 per cent of all deaths in England are preventable and are caused by the effects of lifestyle choices including diet, lack of exercise, smoking, alcohol and drugs.

Treating preventable diseases, such as heart disease and smoking-related lung cancer, costs the NHS in England £11 billion each year.

About 1.2m people in London still smoke. Of these, 280,000 live in east London and the local NHS spends £56m a year treating people for illnesses caused by it.

Type 2 diabetes is also preventable.

One in six patients in hospital in England has diabetes, 90 per cent of whom have Type 2 and it costs the NHS £1million an hour to care for them – 10 per cent of the total NHS spend.

More than half of all adults in east London are overweight or clinically obese. This is less than the national average of 63 per cent, but London has the highest rate of childhood obesity of any city of its size in the world.

If we fail to tackle preventable illnesses, not only will this situation continue, and likely get worse, the sustainability of our health and care services will be put at risk.

The East London Health & Care Partnership has three priorities to help tackle these issues:

- ▶ To help people stop smoking. We will especially target children and young people, so they fully understand how harmful and expensive smoking is – both to the individual and, in terms of treatment, to the NHS
- ▶ To reduce diabetes. We want to improve early diagnosis and provide ongoing support for those identified ‘at risk’. This includes offering places on the National Diabetes Prevention Programme, where people are given a personal health and wellbeing coach to help with their diet and exercise. We also want to improve outcomes for those living with Type 1 and Type 2 diabetes, ensuring they receive regular follow ups and have access to specialist advice when needed.
- ▶ To improve workplace health. Around 24 million working days are lost in London each year because of sickness absence or injury. We will help business and public sector organisations across east London, including our own, give better health and wellbeing support to staff. We will promote healthy eating and physical activity and create support services for dealing with stress and other health issues, including those who want to stop smoking or reduce the amount of alcohol they drink.

But it’s not just down to the authorities; we all have a stake in our own health. There are many things we can do in our daily lives to take better care of ourselves – such as eating more healthily, reducing alcohol intake and getting plenty of exercise.

Some of the things we want to do will take longer than others, but we are doing all we can to make them happen as quickly as possible.

What are we doing?

Some of the things we want to do will take longer than others, but we are doing all we can to make them happen as quickly as possible.

- Providing better support in our hospitals, mental and community health and primary care services to help people stop smoking
- Improving screening processes to better identify those at risk of contracting Type 2 diabetes, and offering courses to help those people change their lifestyles
- Making the care that people with Type 1 and Type 2 diabetes receive in GP surgeries and hospitals the same across east London
- Empowering people, through flexible self-care courses, to better look after their diabetes and avoid unnecessary trips to hospital
- Working with local schools, colleges and universities, employers, libraries and voluntary services to provide better support for young people with diabetes
- Improving workplace health across east London, starting with the NHS. Happier, healthier NHS staff means better healthcare for patients.

What does it mean for local people?

- Better support to stop smoking, with help and advice available at many health and care centres, workplaces and online
- Better screening, diagnosis, treatment and support for people with diabetes
- New services to help young people, and pregnant women, manage diabetes better
- Better opportunities and more support to stay healthy at work
- Greater consistency of healthcare opportunities and support across east London
- Help to help you take better care of yourself

What can you do?

- If you smoke, try to stop and seek help to do so
- Cut down on sugary food and drinks
- Eat smaller portions and enjoy a balanced diet, including vegetables
- Keep hydrated – plenty of water!
- If you drink alcohol, do so sensibly and watch how much you drink
- Try to do some physical exercise every day. Just taking the stairs instead of the lift once a day, or going for a quick stroll, can make a difference

And if you do these things yourself, support a family member or friend that wants to do the same!

Take an NHS Health Check

The NHS Health Check is a health check-up for adults in England aged 40-74. It’s designed to spot early signs of stroke, kidney disease, heart disease, type 2 diabetes or dementia. As we get older, we have a higher risk of developing one of these conditions. An NHS Health Check helps find ways to lower this risk.

If you are in this age group without a pre-existing condition, you can expect to receive a letter from your GP or local authority inviting you for a free NHS Health Check every five years.

In the meantime, there are other ways of getting your health checked. Visit www.nhs.uk for more information on this and many other topics.

URGENT & EMERGENCY CARE

Our aims

- Make it easier to understand the range of services available and how to access them quickly
- Provide more services in local communities, so they are accessible and convenient. This will also reduce the pressure on hospitals
- Make it easier to see a GP and bring services together

Our hospital Accident & Emergency (A&E) Departments face some of the most intense pressures in our local health and care services, with growing numbers of people attending them each year.

Around 100 people are currently visiting the A&Es across east London every hour. But many of them do not need to be there, as they have relatively minor problems that can be treated elsewhere.

With people unsure of where to go for treatment, there is a huge demand on busy A&E services.

Some 68 per cent of patients have told us they do not know the difference between facilities such as 'Urgent Treatment Centres' and 'Minor Injury Units'. We want to change this.

An immediate priority for the East London Health & Care Partnership is to give better information on how and where we can all get the right care and treatment, including advice on ways we can look after ourselves.

There are three ways in which you can access health services and help to reduce pressure on our hospitals:

- ▶ 'Click' - online information and support and to book urgent or routine appointments when needed.
- ▶ 'Call' - for people who don't have access to the internet and those who need more advice or reassurance from a healthcare professional.
- ▶ 'Come in' - where patients really need to see a healthcare professional.

...and we are improving all three.

'Click' and 'Call' - information and support online and by telephone through NHS 111

Click

Online support and information 24/7 through the NHS 111 website at www.nhs.uk. Here you get information on a range of health issues, and in a variety of languages, to help you decide what action to take, including what to do if you need to speak to a clinician.

Call

If you do not have access to the internet, or need further health advice after going online, you should firstly try calling your GP. If your GP is unavailable, you can call NHS 111 by simply dialing 111.

The NHS 111 telephone service is being improved from next year, enabling you to speak to a wider range of qualified healthcare professionals, including nurses, GPs and pharmacists.

Calls to NHS 111 about the very young and older people (babies under one and people over 75) will always be directed immediately to a qualified healthcare professional.

Speaking to NHS 111 will ensure you are getting the right level of advice and support. If you need to be seen by someone, you will be booked an appointment at the most appropriate place, such as with your own GP or at an Urgent Treatment Centre close to where you live.

Staff from care homes and community health staff are also now using NHS 111 for clinical advice. It is helping many people avoid the need to go to hospital and be treated and cared for at home instead.

Come in

Where patients really need to see a healthcare professional because it is an emergency.

GP Practices

We don't just want to make it easier to book an appointment with a GP. We also want to offer them at a more convenient time.

It's now possible to book appointments online at many surgeries. An increasing number are extending their opening hours to cover evenings and weekends.

In some instances you may not need to visit a surgery at all. You could have the appointment with a doctor, or nurse, by a video link from your smartphone instead.

We are also looking to free GPs, and other healthcare professionals in local surgeries, from paperwork so they can spend more time with their patients, especially those with complex conditions.

Improvements to information systems, and the links between surgeries, hospitals and specialist services, will give doctors and other clinical specialists quicker access to records and test results, enabling them to plan and give better care to patients.

Community

A priority is to provide care closer to, or in, people's homes. It's why we are bringing all the relevant services together in local neighbourhoods.

GPs, community nurses and other NHS specialists will be based alongside council care teams in centres across east London, within easy reach of the main residential areas, to provide comprehensive treatment and support - not just in the centres themselves, but also in the surrounding homes.

Bringing expertise together in this way will do more than just streamline services. With more staff than traditional GP practices, and equipped with the latest facilities and technology, the centres will be able to stay open longer and offer a greater range of services - from 8am to 8pm, seven days a week.

Urgent Treatment Centres

If your need cannot be treated by a GP, you may be directed or booked for an appointment at your nearest Urgent Treatment Centre.

Located across east London, Urgent Treatment Centres give treatment for minor injuries including: sprains, strains and broken bones; injuries to the back shoulders and chest; minor head and eye injuries; minor burns and scalds; insect and animal bites; and wound infections.

Before heading off to one of these centres, we recommend people contact NHS 111 first so they can be directed to the right place. If you do go to an Urgent Treatment Centre and your need can be better met elsewhere you will be redirected. It's therefore best to give a 'click' or 'call' to NHS 111 first to ensure you get it right and don't waste time.

Accident & Emergency Departments

If you need to attend an Accident & Emergency Department (A&E) we want to ensure you are treated as soon as possible.

For some emergency conditions, we are setting up special areas in A&Es where people can be quickly assessed and treated so they can, when possible, go straight home without being admitted to hospital.

An example would be for a clot in the lung (pulmonary emboli) or leg (deep vein thrombosis). You will be treated by a team of specialists in a separate part of the A&E and may be able to leave the same day, with medication and a schedule of follow up treatment if needed. ▶

What are we doing?

Some of the things we want to do will take longer than others, but we are doing all we can to make them happen as quickly as possible.

- Providing better information to the public on where to get the most appropriate healthcare.
- Launching a new, improved NHS 111 online and telephone service, with better links to other health services such as GPs, pharmacists, Urgent Treatment Centres, mental health specialists and community health professionals.
- Improving access to weekend and evening GP appointments.
- Saving some visits to the surgery by enabling patients to speak to a doctor or nurse online or via a video link from a smartphone.
- Improving information systems for GPs to free them up from paperwork, see more patients and plan and give better care.
- Bringing community nurses, GPs, other NHS specialists and social care staff under one roof in local communities.
- Creating consistency in the services available at Urgent Treatment Centres, so people understand what treatment can be given to them.
- Creating special areas in the hospital for specific emergency conditions to avoid people being admitted to hospital when there is no medical need for this.

What does it mean for local people?

- It will be easier to understand what healthcare services are available, and where.
- By calling or visiting NHS 111 online you will be able to get all the advice you need on how and where you can get the best care.
- It will be easier to book an appointment with a GP. Appointment times will be more convenient, including evenings and the weekends. In some instances you may not need to go to the surgery at all. Instead, you could speak to the doctor or nurse over the phone, online or via a video link from a smartphone.
- You will be able to see a range of health and social care professionals, quickly and conveniently in one place, close to your home.
- Wherever you live in east London, you will have access to an Urgent Treatment Centre for the treatment of minor injuries, including broken bones and minor burns.
- We will strive to give every patient the best possible care and treatment. If you need to be admitted to hospital, we want to reduce the time you have to spend there and get you safely home as soon as possible.

PRIMARY CARE SERVICES

Our aims

- Make it easy to see your local GP or healthcare professional
- Improve the quality of services provided, so it is consistently good
- Bring services together to make them more accessible and convenient

Primary Care services are usually the first point of contact the public has with the NHS. They include GP surgeries or practices, pharmacies and dentists.

Across east London there are examples of excellent primary care services. Many are among the best in the country, but there are also some that need improving.

We want all of our health and care services in east London to be the very best and are working with clinicians and staff in primary care to ensure they are consistently good across the area, both now and in the future.

Information on the many improvements we are making is also given elsewhere in this guide, especially in the section on Urgent and Emergency Care. This includes information about the NHS 111 service, which you can contact online or by telephone for advice and help, day and night, when you don't feel well and are unsure about what to do and where to go.

We want to make it easier to book an appointment with a GP. We also want to offer them at a more convenient time.

It's now possible to book appointments at many surgeries online. An increasing number are extending their opening hours to cover evenings and weekends.

In some instances you may not need to visit a surgery at all. You could have the appointment with a doctor, or nurse, by a video link from your smartphone instead.

We are also looking to free GPs, and other healthcare professionals in local surgeries, from paperwork so they can spend more time with their patients, especially those with complex conditions.

Improvements to information systems, and the links between surgeries, hospitals and specialist services, will give doctors and other clinical specialists quicker access to records and test results, enabling them to plan and give better care to patients.

For minor ailments it's often quicker in the first instance to visit your local pharmacy rather than GP surgery.

Pharmacists are skilled, qualified healthcare practitioners who will be able to see you immediately and offer advice and medication for a range of complaints such as hay fever, conjunctivitis and flu. They offer many other services as well, including flu vaccinations and help with stopping smoking.

An increasing number of pharmacists in east London are able to offer urgent repeat medication. NHS 111 can also help with this.

An important priority is to provide care closer to, or in, people's homes.

It's why we are bringing all the relevant services together in local neighbourhoods, in the form of hubs.

GPs, community nurses and other NHS specialists will be based alongside council care teams in centres across east London, within easy reach of the main residential areas, to provide comprehensive treatment and support – not just in the centres themselves, but also in the surrounding homes.

Bringing expertise together in this way will do more than just streamline services. With more staff than traditional GP surgeries, and equipped with the latest facilities and technology, the hubs will be able to stay open longer and offer a greater range of services – from 8am to 8pm, seven days a week.

As well as making primary care more accessible and convenient, we want to improve the quality of services so people experience the best possible treatment and care – whoever they are and wherever they live.

What are we doing?

Some of the things we want to do will take longer than others, but we are doing all we can to make them happen as quickly as possible.

- Providing better information to the public on where to get the most appropriate healthcare.
- Launching a new, improved NHS 111 online and telephone service, with better links to other health services such as GPs, pharmacists, Urgent Treatment Centres, mental health specialists and community health professionals.
- Improving access to weekend and evening GP appointments
- Saving some visits to the surgery by enabling patients to speak to a doctor or nurse online or via a video link from a smartphone.
- Improving information systems for GPs to free them up from paperwork, see more patients and plan and give better care.
- Bringing community nurses, GPs, other NHS specialists and social care staff under one roof in local communities.
- Helping GP practices improve the experience of their patients, including better staff training and development
- Helping GP practices improve services for people with long term conditions, such as diabetes
- Projecting the mix and number of GPs and other Primary Care staff that will be needed to meet the needs of the public in the future, and working hard to recruit them
- Working together to retain current staff for longer, making east London an attractive place to work for both existing and new recruits

What does it mean for local people?

- It will be easier to understand what healthcare services are available, and where.
- By calling or contacting NHS 111 online you will be able to get all the advice you need on show and where you can get the best care.
- It will be easier to book an appointment with a GP. Appointment times will be more convenient, including evenings and the weekends. In some instances you may not need to go to the surgery at all. Instead, you could speak to the doctor or nurse over the phone, online or via a video link from a smartphone.
- You will be able to see a preferred clinician if you wish and are prepared to wait longer for an appointment.
- You will be able to see a range of health and social care professionals, quickly and conveniently in one place, close to your home.
- Your overall experience of Primary Care will be better and consistent. You will feel you are treated as a person, not a number

MENTAL HEALTH

Our aims

- Improve access to services and cut waiting times for treatment
- Treat mental and physical health needs as one
- Address the wider determinants on mental health, e.g. housing and employment

Mental health services in east London are among the best in England, but they face tough challenges ahead.

The area's growing population is placing unprecedented demands on services, with higher numbers of people needing mental health support.

One in four of us will have problems with our mental health at some time in our lives. Whether it is a concern about a job, financial problems, a relationship, bereavement or the pace and pressures of modern life, it can happen to any of us.

- ▶ People with a serious mental health illness die on average 15 years younger than the rest of the population.
- ▶ Physical and mental health issues are intrinsically linked – 30 per cent of people with a long-term condition have a mental health problem and 46 per cent of people with a mental health problem have a long-term condition.
- ▶ Mental health service users in east London are two to three times more likely to die of cancer, circulatory or respiratory disease than the rest of the population.
- ▶ 50 per cent of lifetime mental health conditions are first experienced by the age of 14, 75 per cent by the age of 24.
- ▶ 60 per cent of people in contact with secondary care mental health services are not in employment.
- ▶ 47 per cent of people with serious mental illness smoke compared to 20 per cent of the wider population.
- ▶ 30 per cent of people with serious mental illness are obese compared to 10 per cent of the general population.

Many people with mental health problems have to rely on emergency departments (A&E) for help.

- ▶ People with mental health problems in east London attend A&E nearly three times as often as others. They are also three times more likely to be admitted to hospital in emergencies than others.
- ▶ More than 20 per cent of all emergency admissions in east London can be attributed to mental health service users, who only make up seven per cent of the overall population.

No one should experience mental illness without the right support. But with more and more people needing it, and only so many resources available, we will have to change the way our mental health services are delivered.

We are making the provision of sustainable mental health services across east London one of our top priorities, but believe we can go further.

Working in partnership, bringing the NHS and councils together, our ambition is to:

- ▶ Develop new models of care that address mental and physical health and social care needs as one.
- ▶ Provide good service user education to reduce stigma and promote resilience.
- ▶ Help people with more serious mental health problems to find and remain in employment – a key factor in their recovery.

We also want to find the right place for people to live, with the right support close by – essential in helping them get well.

Creating opportunities and providing good quality care in the community, including specialist services, is an underlying aim of the East London Health & Care Partnership. It is part and parcel of helping people live happy and independent lives, and nowhere is this more important than in mental health.

What are we doing?

Some of the things we want to do will take longer than others, but we are doing all we can to make them happen as quickly as possible.

- Working with partners to address the wider determinants of mental health e.g. access to accommodation, education and employment.
- Supporting the roll out of digital self-management tools such as the London Digital Mental Wellbeing Service (www.digitalwellbeing.london).
- Developing an east London-wide suicide prevention strategy.
- Supporting employers to improve staff mental health and emotional wellbeing via programmes such as Mental Health First Aid.
- Developing our talking therapies services so there are more appointments with reduced waiting times.
- Integrating mental health services into GP surgeries, A&E and general hospitals.
- Developing perinatal mental health services for expectant mums and mums of new babies.
- Improving services for people experiencing a crisis by ensuring everyone in crisis can access mental health crisis support 24/7.
- Delivering mental health treatment at home.
- Delivering specialist mental health services for children and young people closer to home.
- Developing a new Child and Adolescent Mental Health Unit Psychiatric Intensive Care Unit here in east London.

What does it mean for local people?

- Improved access to, and shorter waiting times for, psychological therapies.
- A wider range of mental health services to be accessible via your GP.
- Your mental and physical health and social care needs treated as one, wherever and whenever necessary.
- Enhanced support to access the right education, employment and accommodation opportunities for people with mental health issues.
- People in east London will have access to the same range of mental health services wherever they live.

CANCER

Our aims

- Cut waiting times for appointments
- Diagnose and treat any cancer quickly, with better education and information for the public
- Improve care and outcomes for people

Parts of east London compare poorly with the rest of England in helping to prevent and treat cancer.

Local people aren't living as healthy a lifestyle as others elsewhere. The area has higher-than-average rates of smoking and obesity and fewer take part in any form of physical activity.

People are also not going for check-ups as often as they should, greatly reducing the chances of survival because a cancer hasn't been detected and treated early enough.

The facts are simple:

- ▶ More than 40 per cent of cancers diagnosed in the UK last year could have been prevented by people adopting healthier lifestyles.
- ▶ Up to 10,000 deaths in England could be avoided each year if cancer is diagnosed earlier and treatment started sooner.

But we can all do something about it.

The East London Health & Care Partnership is making the prevention of cancer, and improving outcomes for people that have it, a top priority.

We are going to improve information on screening for breast, cervical and bowel cancer and other forms of the disease. This includes better signposting on when and where you can be screened, and what you can do yourself to check for symptoms.

We especially want to reach out to those that don't have regular health checks, or who don't like seeking help.

We want to cut waiting times for appointments and ensure patients from all backgrounds have access to timely, high quality modern treatments. With the help of some of the best expertise available, we want people to live well after treatment and increase their chances of survival.

What are we doing?

Some of the things we want to do will take longer than others, but we are doing all we can to make them happen as quickly as possible.

- Ensuring all patients who are referred for an urgent appointment with a specialist are seen within two weeks.
- Making sure patients are receiving their tests and diagnostics on time to enhance early diagnosis and treatment and improve cancer survival.
- Enabling better communication between GPs, hospital consultants and other specialists to allow faster and more effective treatment and care.
- Encouraging patients in east London to take up their screening.
- Improving information technology and administrative processes to make sure the cancer referral pathway is effective and patient care is joined up.
- Listening to patients and carers to ensure we meet their needs and keep improving their care.
- Working with public health services to improve prevention and lifestyle choices.

What does it mean for local people?

- If you are referred urgently by your GP or another health care professional you will be seen within two weeks.
- If you have a cancer diagnosis, you will receive treatment quickly in order to improve your chances of survival.
- A number of health and social care professionals will be involved in your care to ensure your care is joined up.
- Your experience of care will be positive because we are listening to you and making improvements.
- If you take up screening when you get an appointment, you are likely to receive early detection and treatment.

What can you do?

We will do our bit to turn things round, and make sure east London does everything it can to beat cancer. But you can play your part too and take good care of yourself. It is by far and away the best thing you can do to avoid this disease.

Do yourself, your family and friends a favour and:

- stop smoking
- avoid too much alcohol
- eat well
- keep active
- check yourself over regularly
- register with a GP
- attend regular screening appointments

If your GP refers you to the hospital for a test, or to be seen, please make sure you attend the appointment.

MATERNITY

Our aims

- Improve information and advice about pregnancy to help prevent any problems
- Give women greater control and more choice about how and where they give birth
- Make them feel safe and secure, cared for and supported

East London has the fastest growing population in the UK and the highest birth rate.

Our health and care services must cope with this growth and continue to ensure all goes well for the mums and babies. But it's not the only challenge.

More women of child bearing age are living with a long-term health condition, such as diabetes or heart disease. This can lead to a complex birth, requiring extra care and attention. We need to help women prevent and better manage these conditions.

Our vision for maternity services in east London is for them to be safe, caring and kind. We want it to be easier for women to find out about the services, and for care to be focussed around the needs of the woman and her family.

We want all women to feel safe and secure during their pregnancy. We want them to have a choice about how and where they give birth and to feel supported throughout.

For our staff, our culture is to promote innovation and continuous learning. We want to create a working environment where they feel valued – one that will help us attract and retain the best people.

We are one of seven areas across the country taking part in the Better Births Initiative to make care safer and give women greater control and more choices during their pregnancy. It aims to reduce the number of different midwives and doctors seen during pregnancy, so a proper relationship can be built.

We will strive for continual improvement in all that we do to ensure the best, and happiest, outcome for every mum and baby.

What are we doing?

Some of the things we want to do will take longer than others, but we are doing all we can to make them happen as quickly as possible.

- Listening to, and working with, women in east London to understand their needs and design care around them.
- Giving women greater choice about how and where they give birth.
- Making it easier for people to get help and information and book appointments.
- Ensuring safe and high quality care for all mums and babies.
- Ensuring there are enough midwives to cope with the increasing number of births. There is currently a shortage of midwives in east London, many are retiring or moving away from the area. We need to recruit more and keep them here.
- Working together to ensure every woman gets continuity of care throughout her pregnancy and birth. We want to reduce the number of different midwives and doctors she sees, so a proper relationship can be built.

What does it mean for local people?

- You will have a greater choice about where and how you give birth.
- You will have easier and better access to help and information, including advice on how to keep well before, during and after pregnancy. You will also be able to book appointments online.
- You will likely see the same midwife throughout your pregnancy to ensure continuity of care.
- The plan for care during your pregnancy will be developed and agreed between you and your midwife or obstetrician.
- If you have a long-term condition, such as diabetes, or you are having twins or other multiples, you will be seen by your midwife and obstetrician regularly and may be referred to a specialist.
- Your overall experience of care during and after your pregnancy will be positive and of high quality. We want you to feel safe and secure, cared for and supported.

MEDICATION

Our aims

- Ensure the right medicines are used, at the right time, for the right patients
- Reduce medicine waste
- Make it easier to get prescribed medicine when it is needed

To be truly effective, medicines must be used properly and responsibly – from those that help get us better when we're ill, to those that keep people with long-term conditions alive.

The East London Health & Care Partnership's aim is to ensure the right people, get the right medicine at the right time. We don't want people taking medicines they don't need.

New medicines are being introduced all the time. This includes those available over the counter from pharmacists and supermarkets, as well as those only available on prescription.

GPs, pharmacists and other healthcare professionals must have a good understanding of what medicines their patients are taking and what they can and cannot do. They also need to know the side effects of the medicines and how and when they should be taken.

Evidence from the Royal Pharmaceutical Society shows there is an urgent need to get the fundamentals of medicine use right.

For example:

- ▶ Only 16 per cent of patients who are prescribed a new medicine take it as prescribed.
- ▶ At least six per cent of emergency re-admissions are caused by avoidable adverse reactions to medicines.
- ▶ It's estimated at least £300m is wasted on medicines each year across England.

The overuse of anti-biotics is also something we need to get right. It is weakening their effectiveness and making them counter-productive. The World Health Organisation says resistance to antibiotics is one of the biggest threats to global health.

We will be improving education and information about medicines and encouraging people to become less dependent on them, including antibiotics.

There are alternative and often more effective ways to treat and prevent common ailments.

Taking regular Vitamin C and Zinc supplements, for instance, can prevent colds developing. If you do have a cold, steaming your nose and mouth for up to 15 minutes, four times a day, and drinking plenty of fluids, can alleviate the symptoms.

For people with long-term conditions, alternatives to medication can include following a particular healthy eating regime and an exercise programme.

An example is for those with high cholesterol. A diet rich in plant sterols and stanols, that block the body's absorption of cholesterol, can avoid some people having to take drugs called statins. They are substances that are naturally found in small amounts in plants – in fruit, vegetables, pulses and grains. You can also buy spreads, cereals and yoghurt-style drinks which have been fortified with them. Regular exercise also helps and sometimes reduces the need for blood pressure medication.

Physical activity can also help with mental health conditions, such as depression, as can getting sufficient sleep and being more involved in communities to combat loneliness.

We also need to reduce the prescribing of medicines that are proven to have limited clinical value.

Around £3.8m is currently being spent on them every year in east London. It doesn't just represent poor value for money – which could be better spent on other health and care services – the use of such medicines is not in the best interest of patients.

It is not always necessary to go to a GP for treatment for minor ailments, or for medication that can be bought over the counter in a pharmacy or shop without a prescription. A pharmacist can give advice for problems such as coughs, colds, fevers, hay fever and eye infections.

For those taking medication for a long-term condition, your GP will regularly review what you are taking and adjust it as and when needed. If your surgery has a practice pharmacist you can ask them to check the medication too.

What are we doing?

Some of the things we want to do will take longer than others, but we are doing all we can to make them happen as quickly as possible.

- Following national recommendations from NHS England, we are reviewing the prescribing of certain medicines. They are those for which there is limited evidence about their effectiveness.
- Buying some medicines from alternative better value suppliers. These are the unbranded items that do exactly the same thing, but for a lot less money. It will enable any savings to be better spent on other health and care services.
- Helping people take charge of their overall health and achieve better outcomes without a dependency on medication. Holding regular reviews with patients to identify medicines they no longer need.
- Reducing medicines waste
- Reducing resistance to antibiotics by moderating the amount and type prescribed. Educating patients and prescribers on the importance of completing courses of antibiotics when necessary.
- Ensuring we have sufficient pharmacists where they are needed. This includes clinical pharmacists within GP practices and/ or clinics in order to help ensure the right medicines are used, at the right time for the right patients.

What does it mean for local people?

- You will be able to get professional medical advice for all minor ailments in pharmacies, including out of hours pharmacies.
- Pharmacists will give you advice on the nature of medicines available to buy over the counter and what you will need a prescription for.
- You will not be prescribed medicines for which there is limited evidence about their effectiveness or where there are safer alternatives.
- You will not be prescribed antibiotics unless they are essential.
- You will be less likely to be kept in hospital waiting for medicines to be prescribed.
- The cost of prescribing medicines to you as a tax-payer will be less, meaning money can be better spent on other health and care services.

DIGITAL & ONLINE SERVICES

Our aims

- Give quick and easy access to health and care services, with you in control and able to see your own records
- Make it easy to book an appointment with, and talk to, a GP or other healthcare professional
- Enable healthcare professionals to provide better treatment and care by improving information systems and the sharing of records

Digital technology has brought benefits that are now part of everyday life. It has given us greater control over how and when we do anything, from shopping and banking to learning and communicating.

With this has come an expectation to access and receive services quickly and easily, whenever we want.

It's no different when it comes to health and care services.

This is why we want to make the best use of technology and give local people help and support at their convenience, rather than ours.

It means being able to book appointments with a your GP online; not having to physically go to a surgery or hospital every time you need help; and being able to view your own records. Our aim is to put you in the driving seat.

Improvements to information systems and the sharing of records will allow health and care organisations to work more closely together. It will eliminate unnecessary tests and stop you having to keep telling us about any medication you might be taking.

Doctors and other care professionals will be better placed to help prevent illness and give you the most appropriate and timely care should you need it. With better access to clinical data, and details of any hereditary illness, they will be able to detect any potential problems much sooner - increasing your chances of avoiding illness completely or recovering more quickly.

We also plan to introduce digital technology to allow doctors and healthcare professionals provide more care in local communities - something that will also reduce the pressure on hospitals.

Digital devices, such as those that can monitor your heart via a smartphone, will enable you to care for yourself in the comfort of your own home, yet remain in constant touch with expert help and support, should it be needed.

Digital outpatient services - virtual clinics that allow a consultant to assess a patient's records to decide if they actually need to visit hospital, or if the GP can take the required action - are also being introduced.

Finally, more information will be made available on how to avoid ill health, especially online and through digital apps. This includes improvements to the national NHS Choices website, as well as local initiatives like the MyMindApp and GP websites.

What are we doing?

Some of the things we want to do will take longer than others, but we are doing all we can to make them happen as quickly as possible.

- Enabling GP appointments to be booked online.
- Allowing people to view their own health and care records.
- Putting more services, such as some GP consultations and mental health services, online.
- Improving information systems and sharing of records to allow healthcare professionals to work more closely.

What does it mean for local people?

- You will have quicker and easier access health and care services.
- You will be able to book GP appointments or talk to your GP online if you choose to.
- Doctors and other healthcare professionals will be better placed, with the right information, to help prevent illness and give you better care should you need it.
- You will be cared for closer to home, or in your home.
- You will have better information on how to stay healthy and well; to monitor your own health better and prevent it deteriorating by getting support at the first sign of a problem.

Our aims

- Ensure we have the we have right number of good quality staff to look after people, now and in the future
- Make services and care accessible and convenient, consistent and personal
- Give the best possible treatment and care by ensuring our staff have access to all information and resources they need

THE RIGHT STAFF

There is a considerable shortage of staff to fill key roles in health and care services. It's one of the biggest challenges the sector is facing in meeting the demands of a growing and ageing population.

Not as many people want to become doctors or nurses or care workers as used to.

Doctors, nurses and care workers cannot afford to live in London because of high property prices and a chronic shortage of suitable accommodation.

People also want more flexible jobs and careers so they can manage their other responsibilities like childcare or looking after an older relative.

Many GPs are due to retire soon, and a quarter of nurses leave their profession after just five years.

Nearly 20 per cent of jobs in registered social care lie vacant.

We are having to rely heavily on temporary staff, who come at higher rates than permanent staff and are not always available.

While we are still managing to provide services safely, action is needed to tackle the shortages, both now and in the future.

Attracting staff

The regeneration of many parts of east London is making it an increasingly attractive place to live and work. We need to promote this more strongly and sell its strengths.

In future when we advertise for staff, we will not just give details about the job and organisation. We will tell people about the wider benefits of the area – its transport, shopping and restaurants; the nurseries, schools and colleges; the many leisure attractions. Most importantly, we will help find them a home and offer affordable key worker accommodation. This is the single most important factor in recruiting staff to work in London and is something we are currently working on with housing providers and developers.

But we don't just want to attract staff from outside the area. Far from it. We want to recruit 'home-grown' talent too and are working with local schools, colleges and universities to do more of this. Creating job and career opportunities in our public services for the people that already live here will always be a priority for the partnership.

When we have recruited good quality people to come and work with us, we want to keep them.

To do this we need to offer more training, research and career development opportunities, with the ability to work across different organisations.

For example, midwives in east London are now getting the chance to work in all different areas of the profession not just one – home births; deliveries in birthing centres; hospital labour wards; experience of complicated births. It's this sort of variety, and the opportunity to progress a career without having to keep moving home, that's a big factor in retaining people.

As well as offering careers, we will also be putting more emphasis on looking after the health and wellbeing of our staff, including how to manage stress. Difficulty with this is a major reason why many doctors, nurses and carers leave the profession. We want to ensure the right support is in place to help them.

What are we doing?

Some of the things we want to do will take longer than others, but we are doing all we can to make them happen as quickly as possible.

- Collaborating with councils and housing associations to ensure there is affordable accommodation for key workers.
- Expanding roles in GP surgeries (including physician associates, clinical pharmacists, practice healthcare assistants and care navigators) and developing an endoscopy and community nurse workforce.
- Promoting east London as a place, with all its attractions and benefits, to encourage more staff to live, work and stay here.
- Working with education and training providers to develop job and career opportunities in health and care for local residents.
- Offering more training, research and career development opportunities.
- Looking after staff so they can better look after the people of east London.

What does it mean for local people?

- More healthcare professionals likely to be taken on and retained to look after you and your family's health and care needs – now and in the future.
- A continuity of care wherever you are treated – in hospital, in the community and at home.
- More job and career opportunities in local health and care services

THE RIGHT PLACE

Having staff in the right place might be a hospital, a GP surgery or even a patient's home.

Whether staff work in a hospital trauma centre or in the community, we are enabling and encouraging them to work together across the range of health and care services. We want to stop working in silos. The focus will be on following patients, not patients following us.

Where we can we are looking to put local health and care, and other public services, in the same building. This isn't just to save money, but to encourage closer working between them – and to stop the public having to go to lots of different places.

When a building is no longer required, the money recouped from the sale or rent will be reinvested locally to help improve or rebuild those we do need.

Although we have many modern facilities in the area, we also have buildings that are more than 100 years old and no longer fit for purpose. Whipps Cross Hospital in Waltham Forest definitely needs rebuilding, and we are working on this right now. We want all of our facilities to be up to date and functional, ready for future advances.

A greater use of digital technology will also help ensure services are provided in the right place. We want staff to have greater flexibility over how and where they work so they can spend more time in local communities. It also saves money on costly building space, which can be better spent on patient care.

Technology brings other benefits too.

Using a digital device to constantly monitor someone's heart, or provide a video link to a doctor or nurse, for instance, can enable a patient needing that type of care to stay in the comfort of their own home, yet remain in constant touch with expert help and support should it be needed.

It will not only make care accessible and convenient, but more consistent and personal. It's very likely you will see the same staff throughout your care rather than lots of different people.

If you are unfortunate enough to have an accident requiring major surgery, for instance, once you have been discharged from hospital the same team of physiotherapists will visit you at home to help you fully recover. As well as saving numerous trips back and forth to the hospital, it will avoid you constantly having to repeat your medical history, or details of any medication, to a number of different people.

What are we doing?

Some of the things we want to do will take longer than others, but we are doing all we can to make them happen as quickly as possible.

- Ensuring staff can offer a continuity of care to all patients.
- Improving buildings and facilities in need of repair or modernising.
- Enabling staff to work in the community – making services more accessible and convenient and saving on costly building space.
- Tapping into the opportunities digital technology offers to give patients better and more convenient access to services. This includes appointments via a video link and apps to monitor their own health and progress.
- Looking to share the buildings we do need with other public services, not just to save cost but to make things more convenient for people.

What does it mean for local people?

- Care will be accessible and convenient, more consistent and personal
- More care will be given to you in your home or close by, helped by digital technology
- You will more likely see the same staff throughout your care, establishing a relationship with them that generates assurance and trust
- No need to keep repeating your medical history and medicines to different health and care professionals.

THE RIGHT RESOURCES

It's vital our staff have all the resources they need to do their job effectively.

As we have already said, digital technology will enable staff to spend more time in local communities. We will continue to invest in it to ensure they have easy and reliable access to all the information and data while out and about.

The right resources also means creating better links between the many different information and IT systems across health and care services.

Many of them have been developed independently of one another and, as a result, they can't 'talk' to each other. It's slowing down information exchanges between organisations and delaying the results of clinical tests. We are joining systems up to overcome these problems.

And it's not just about information technology.

To give effective treatment and care, staff need access to an array of equipment and resources, from hi-tech medical scanning systems to basic office supplies. We are working together to make sure they have it, investing in new kit and facilities where needed and joining up our buying teams to secure the best possible deals.

What are we doing?

Some of the things we want to do will take longer than others, but we are doing all we can to make them happen as quickly as possible.

- Continuing to invest in digital technology to ensure staff can work anywhere in the community with the information and data they need.
- Joining up IT systems to speed up information exchanges and the sharing of records so staff can plan, and give better treatment and care.
- Working together to ensure staff have all the modern facilities and equipment they need to do their jobs effectively

What does it mean for local people?

- More care can be given in or closer to your home as a result of staff being better equipped to work flexibly
- Your treatment and care will be planned and managed more effectively thanks to improved IT systems and the sharing of records
- Modern equipment and facilities will enable you to get the best possible treatment and care

2017 HIGHLIGHTS

PREVENTION

Highlights

- We agreed a shared ambition to reduce obesity, smoking, diabetes, high blood pressure and heart disease. We want to support people to do more physical activity, educate people around how to avoid or better manage health conditions and see more use of 'social prescriptions'.
- We secured extra funding to support people with diabetes and help smokers quit.
- We held a successful conference on workplace health and established a community of practice to promote it. We also launched a project with the Healthy London Partnership to improve staff health in GP practices and pharmacies.

URGENT & EMERGENCY CARE

Highlights

We worked together to improve access to health services. In the New Year, patients will be able to:

- ▶ 'Click' – using NHS 111 online to access information and support regarding their health.
 - ▶ 'Call' – calling NHS 111 to access advice or reassurance from a healthcare professional
 - ▶ 'Come in' – when patients need to be seen, because it is an emergency, we are supporting direct booking into either their own GP or appropriate service. This will also help reduce the pressures on A&E departments so that people who need to be seen there will be treated as soon as possible.
- We have shared learning to improve patient flows through our hospitals, valuing our patients' time and reducing delays in transfers of care following an admission.
 - We implemented measures to enhance care provided in care homes and people's own homes, helping develop a skilled workforce.
 - Social care providers told us it is often difficult to support people who become unwell in their own home. As a result, we will shortly be launching a pilot to give domiciliary care workers increased direct access to clinical advice via NHS 111.

PRIMARY CARE SERVICES

Highlights

- We launched a series of programmes to improve and standardise the quality of primary care across east London. This includes training plans and a common system for sharing improvement projects, with 500 free licences available to commissioners and providers.
- We established business intelligence systems to collect clinical outcome data and help improve the efficiency of patient services.
- We successfully set up a development framework to help our primary care providers (GP federations and networks) improve quality across local health and care systems.
- We introduced a model to help us evaluate future workforce needs and a potential skill mix for multi-professional working.
- We implemented a range of plans to recruit and retain our primary care workforce across east London.

MENTAL HEALTH

Highlights

- We successfully bid for additional funding to increase mental health support for people in hospitals.
- We were awarded more money to support children and young people in mental health crisis.
- We began work to improve access to psychological therapies, local crisis services and maternal mental health services.
- We increased the number of physical health checks for patients with a mental illness and are opening up more employment opportunities for people as part of their recovery.

CANCER

Highlights

- We set up three local programmes to improve cancer outcomes at a local level across east London.
- We achieved cancer waiting time targets and secured more funding to help earlier diagnosis.
- The one-year survival rate is continuing to improve for our local population.

MATERNITY

Highlights

- We completed and submitted (in November) our East London Maternity Transformation Plan and Funding Bid in line with the Better Births strategy to improve maternity care for our local women. We are awaiting the outcome of the bid.
- We initiated joint procurement arrangements that will save money for the maternity system without impacting on services.
- We became one of seven maternity 'Pioneer' sites in the country.
- We finalised our East London Midwifery Workforce Programme for launching in the New Year.
- We secured FIVE nominations in the Royal College of Midwives annual awards! Two of these being in the prestigious 'Team of the Year' category.

MEDICATION

Highlights

- Hospital providers and clinical commissioning groups are now working together to switch to medicines that do the same thing as others, but for a better price.
- A national consultation on the value and cost of medicines that have a low clinical value was completed at the end of October. The results of will help steer our future decisions on this in east London.

DIGITAL & ONLINE SERVICES

Highlights

- Health and social care professionals are able to make better and safer decisions by sharing records through the east London Patient Record (eLPR) system. NELFT, LB Newham & LB Hackney have also recently connected to the system, which is now getting over 80,000 views per month – more than anywhere else in the country.
- 2.3m patient records are now placed in Discovery – a population health analytics platform.

Highlights

Organisational development (OD)

- East London Health & Care Partnership is now the pilot site for the national STP OD programme, partnering with the staff college to develop collaborative working.

Workforce recruitment

- We have been working together, across the NHS and councils, to help recruit and retain essential staff for east London, such as doctors, nurses and care workers. This includes helping find them somewhere to live, and developing career opportunities.

Provider productivity

- A cap on the use of medical agencies was introduced in October, thanks to an initiative we ran in conjunction with a pan-London group.
- The introduction of a new procurement scheme has led to economies of scale and greater value for money in the buying of provider consumables.

Infrastructure

- We established an East London Health & Care Partnership estates board – in line with the formation of a London Estates Board and the requirements of London Devolution.
- We have been working together to identify opportunities to share accommodation, office and back office functions. This includes agile and new ways of working, such as shared booking systems.
- We are focusing on maximising the clinical utilisation of estates, thereby supporting seven-day working while increasing efficiency and releasing savings through disposal.
- We are working to complete a prioritised pipeline of sites, mapping current demand and capacity so we can ensure the right infrastructure is in place to meet future needs.

Health & Housing Conference

- Developing the relationship between housing and health, and bringing the various providers and services closer together was the subject of our highly successful Health & Housing Conference in October 2017.
- Delegates from across east London, with an interest in health, social care, housing and regeneration discussed a range of topics, from the provision of accommodation for key workers to how digital technology can help care for people, especially the most vulnerable, in their own home. They also talked about ways of combating homelessness and how housing services can help reduce delays in discharging people from hospital because of a lack of suitable accommodation and support.
- The conference was the first of its kind in east London, generating lots of ideas – many of which were simply the result of everyone coming together.
