8. Compared with the usual level of crime and anti-social behaviour in your local area, do you think the extension of licensing hours for the Royal wedding on Friday 29th April and Saturday 30th April 2011 increased, decreased, or had no effect on the level of crime and anti-social behaviour in your local area on these nights?

☐ Increased

☒ Decreased. The level of crime was down due primarily to there being fewer people in the City. However, anti-social behaviour was up as many licensed premises claimed to have misunderstood the order and thought it applied to all regulated entertainment, whether they had provision for it on their licences or not. Incidents of anti-social behaviour were found in premises that were associated with dancing/recorded or live music as opposed to those premises simply extending their terminal hour for the supply of alcohol.

☐ No effect
