The coming five years

2018-23 is likely to be another period of significant change on a global, national and regional level, bringing with it significant threats as well as opportunities.

Preventing climate change, terrorism and cyber-crime, and countering their effects, will remain high priorities. So too will retaining the UK's competitiveness, in the context of Brexit, increases in the cost of living and reductions in public sector spending.

Disruptive changes, such as the digitisation of our work and personal lives, are likely to bring both threats and opportunities to our residents, workers, visitors, partners and our own organisation.

And, of course, things will happen that we're not expecting but that we will want to respond to positively and constructively.

Our commitments

To do so, we will need to be relevant, responsible, reliable and radical as an organisation. We will need to think and act strategically and at pace. And we will need to ensure that everyone can share in the benefits we aim to create.

This means as individuals we must be open: to unlocking the full potential of our many assets – our people, heritage, green and urban spaces, funds, data and technology; to trying new things and learning as we go; and to working with our stakeholders and partners who share our aims.

How we'll use this plan

This plan is designed to be used as a strategic framework to guide our thinking and decision-making and help ensure that everything we do takes us closer to achieving our vision.

It sets out our vision, the aims and outcomes that drive us, our responsibilities, challenges and commitments and the high-level actions we'll take to help our elected Members and staff see where to focus their efforts to achieve sustainable systemic change.

In year one we will use it to develop our strategic priorities, to decide how best to go about delivering them, to allocate resources towards pursuing them and to find out what effect we are having as a result.

Over the five-year term of the plan we will use it to identify where we need to innovate, with whom we can collaborate and how we can align and drive all our activities to achieve the greatest possible impact on the things we feel are important.
