Summary

In June 2022, Members agreed that a polling organisation be commissioned to carry out a survey of 500 City residents and 1,000 City workers.

The aim of the survey was to help determine satisfaction levels with the services we provide and perceptions of the City as a place to live and work, to see how well we are delivering against the Corporate Plan and help shape future versions.

This report summarises some of the key findings from the survey, which was conducted between October and December 2022 by DJS Research.

Recommendation(s)

Members are asked to note this report summarising key findings from the survey and the detailed report compiled by DJS Research attached as Appendix 1.

Main Report

Background

1. The City of London Corporation last carried out surveys of four key City stakeholders (workers, residents, businesses, and senior executives) in 2013.
2. In June 2022, Members agreed that a polling organisation be commissioned to carry out a survey of City residents and workers.
3. A competitive tendering process was undertaken between July and August 2022, which was won by DJS Research.

Current Position

4. Polling was successfully conducted by DJS Research between October and December 2022, with results now available. A summary of some of the key findings is provided below and the full survey is attached.
5. This poll broadly presents a positive picture of the Square Mile and the City Corporation. It shows:
 - 90% of residents are satisfied (very or fairly) with the City as a place to live and 90% of workers are satisfied with the City as a place to work.
 - The vast majority of residents (around 90%) also agree that the City of London is safe, clean, visually attractive, has good shops, bars and restaurants, and is enjoyable to walk around. Slightly less workers agree on each of these points.
 - Over two thirds of residents (69%) and workers (74%) are satisfied with the way the City Corporation performs its functions.
 - 12% of residents are unfavourable towards the City Corporation – and 13% are not satisfied with the way it performs its functions.
 - Satisfaction levels with the way the City Corporation performs its functions have dropped since 2013 when they were for 87% for residents and 75% for workers. This is however, in line with LGA polling which shows satisfaction levels with local councils currently averaging just over 60% and steadily going down over the last year from just over 70%.

Proposals

6. We intend to share the findings with Chief Officers for them to consider the findings and what they mean for their service areas.

Key Data

7. The survey was completed by 1,523 individuals. This consists of 416 residents, 979 workers, and 128 who both live and work in the City of London, providing a robust sample size with a low margin of error for residents and workers. Quotas were set to help ensure the views of a diverse range of people were obtained.

Corporate & Strategic Implications

Strategic implications – The full survey results will contain findings relevant to many areas of the City Corporation's work. They will assist Chief Officers in determining how well the organisation is performing against the aims of our current Corporate Plan. They also offer an opportunity to understand how important different policies are to residents and workers.

Financial implications - None

Resource implications - None

Legal implications - None

Risk implications - None

Equalities implications – The results of the survey help indicate the diverse resident and worker demographics of the City. This will assist the City Corporation in ensuring the services it provides meet the needs of all those who live and work here.

Climate implications - None

Security implications - None

Conclusion

8. Nearly a decade has passed since the City Corporation commissioned an independent polling company to survey key City stakeholders. Since then, there have been major changes in the way people live and work, and in how businesses operate, many of which have been spurred on by the COVID-19 pandemic.
9. The results of this survey provide a valuable and timely insight into satisfaction levels with the services we provide and perceptions of the City of London and the City Corporation, amongst residents and workers.
10. The results of this survey will be used as a baseline on which to measure future performance.

Introduction

Background and context

The City of London Corporation is the governing body of the City of London, or Square Mile which is the major business and financial centre within London. The City boundaries reach from Temple to the Tower of London on the River Thames, including west to east, Chancery Lane and Liverpool Street.

The City has an estimated resident population of c.9,401 (ONS 2016 estimate) and over 500,000 workers.

The City Corporation are looking to investigate residents' and workers' satisfaction levels of the City and the City Corporation's work, and the services provided in order to measure how well these were being delivered against the current City Corporate plan as well as to help shape future plans.

As a result, the City Corporation commissioned DJS Research Ltd, an independent market research agency to conduct surveys on its behalf for both its residents and workers.

Research Methodology

The research was conducted via two methodologies:

- Face to face interviews
- Online survey

In total, 1,523 interviews were completed.

Face to face interviews

Interviews were conducted across various locations within the City Boundary.

Interviewing shifts were carried out between 13th October and 6th December 2022 with a mix of interviews during the week and weekend. In order to achieve surveys with residents, a door-to-door approach was adopted where possible. Where it was not possible to conduct interviews this way with residents, in-street interviews were conducted instead close to local amenities within a residential vicinity.

In-street interviews were primarily used to obtain feedback from City workers with interviewers located near coffee shops and business premises within the City.

In total, 1,243 face to face interviews were conducted with residents (373), workers (814) and those who both lived and worked in the City (56).

All the interviewers used for the research project were fully trained to IQCS (i.e. the Market Research Industry) Standards and abided by the Market Research Society Code of Conduct.

Online Survey

In order to boost the interview numbers, an online version of the survey was set up and sent out to panelists located in the City to complete.

The online survey was live between 1st and 15th November 2022 and in total 280 surveys were completed with residents (43), workers (166) and those who both lived and worked in the City (72).

Table 1: Methodology
(all responses: Total=1,523).

Respondent type	No. responses	% responses
CAPI (Face to Face)	1243	82%
Online	280	18%

A similar satisfaction study was also conducted in 2013. Where applicable, we have included references to 2013 scores for tracking/comparison purposes. While a lot will have changed over the past decade, not least the impact of the Covid-19 pandemic, there are still interesting comparisons that can be made from the 2022 survey and 2013 survey where questions were the same.

*Please note that some percentages throughout may be out by 1 or 2 percent when comparing net scores to individual percentage scores added together, this is due to rounding.

Preface

This poll broadly presents a very positive picture of the Square Mile and the City Corporation – which is remarkably consistent with when it was last conducted in 2013 and with previous years. The majority of residents and workers like living and working in the City, especially it's great transport links, are satisfied with the job we do and believe the policies we are pursuing are important. The City itself is seen positively across a series of metrics, though is not seen as especially "fun". This is in line with LGA polling which shows the vast majority of people across the country are currently satisfied with their local area and their local authority.

There is more of a feeling of optimism than pessimism about where the City is headed, and more people feel it's changed for the better over the past five years than changed for the worse. This correlates with a recent YouGov poll which showed almost all authorities nationwide, where more people felt their area had improved, were in inner London.

As has been seen in previous years, residents are significantly more familiar with the City Corporation than workers, reflecting the fact they have no other local authority and we make a more direct impact on their daily lives. A small but significant minority of residents are unfavourable towards the City Corporation (12%) – and not satisfied with the way it performs its functions (13%). Those who have been here longer are less satisfied – either meaning they've had longer to build up a bad picture, or more likely that they don't have anywhere else to compare it with (3% of new arrivals rising to 17% of those here more than twenty years). About 1 in 5 residents think we do a bad job on consultation and shaping the built environment. Despite strong scores across a range of topics, 36% of residents do not see us as "listening" and 33% as "caring about people like me". However, while listening more to residents is very important to the most residents (62%) – all other policies tested were also seen as important, including ensuring the City remains attractive to business, improving footfall in local SMEs, as well as achieving net zero by 2040.

Whilst a sizeable proportion of residents continue to give us a top rating for providing value for money (44%), this has dropped by 29 points since 2013. This reflects the results of recent LGA polling which show a downward trajectory on this metric nationwide over the last year and may reflect a broader economic picture amid a cost-of-living crisis. This may also be a driver behind the decrease in satisfaction levels with how the City Corporation performs its functions.

Among workers, there is more indifference to us than among residents and they are less likely to have had a direct interaction with the City Corporation (20% of workers have had no interaction at all vs 3% of residents). Visits to physical spaces, including the Barbican Centre and open spaces, are the most common interaction both workers and residents have had with us. Along with support for business, workers see achieving net zero as the most important City policy tested.

Media habits of residents and workers likely reflect their respective age profile. Quality traditional media is extremely important for our residents, with half following BBC News most days, 4 in 10 looking at a broadsheet newspaper, and notably few reading tabloids regularly. While social media is of high importance in reaching workers, with almost half using Instagram most days (3 in 10 every day), use of both Instagram and Facebook is also significant among residents.

2022 vs 2013 survey

In 2022, 72% of residents feel they know the City Corporation either very or fairly well vs 67% in 2013. Workers saw a significant increase in how well they knew the City Corporation, with 51% stating they know them well vs 36% in 2013.

90% of residents are satisfied with the City as a place to live vs 95% in 2013 and 90% of workers say they are satisfied with the City as a place to work vs 92% in 2013.

69% of residents are either very or fairly satisfied with the way the City Corporation performs its functions which is a significant drop when compared to 87% in 2013. 74% of workers are satisfied in 2022 and this practically mirrors 2013's score of 75%.

2022 has seen a significant drop in residents agreeing that the City Corporation represents good value for money, with 45% rating 1 or 2 (with 1 being great extent and 5 being not at all) compared to 73% in 2013. 49% of workers in 2022 agree they provide value for money, giving them a rating of 1 or 2 which is similar to 2013, where 50% of workers gave a rating of 1 or 2.

Around 9 out of 10 residents would strongly or somewhat agree that the City is safe, clean, visually attractive, has good transport connections, enjoyable to walk around and has good shops, bars and restaurants (between 88% and 92%). Achieving net zero in the City by 2040 was the second policy considered important by those who work in the City (89%). The top policy for residents when asked how important they considered them to be was for the City Corporation to listen more to the views of local residents, with 91% saying this was important (very or somewhat).

Only 14% would not recommend it (scoring between 0 and 6) and are classed as a detractor. When you take the detractor figure away from the promoter figure, you are given a net promoter score (NPS), which in this case equals 33%, this is considered a good score. Residents NPS is at 38% and workers NPS is at 30%. The NPS is a number from -100 through to +100, scores higher than 0 are typically considered good, above 50 are considered excellent. Residents, workers and the two combined all have NPS ratings that are good.

Interactions with the City Corporation

Three quarters of residents (76%) have visited the Barbican Centre while half (50%) have visited the Mansion House, whilst social media was their least popular way of interacting with the City Corporation (22%). It is expensive to live here.
